D. Review of Federal Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) Policy

<http://financialaid.buffalostate.edu/undergraduate-federal-sap-policy>

A student's federal financial aid eligibility is terminated if the minimum SAP standards are not met after the Financial Aid Warning period has ended. However, a student has a right to appeal the loss of federal financial aid eligibility if mitigating circumstances (events totally beyond the student's control) existed. There is no appeal of the Maximum Time Frame (150%) standard.

Students (both undergraduate and graduate) must provide the completed SAP Appeal Form with supporting documentation to the Academic Standards Office by the semester deadline for review.

- The SAP Appeal Committee will review your appeal package and make a determination regarding your summer 2020 eligibility for federal financial aid. All decisions are final.
- Submission of this form does not guarantee the reinstatement of your federal financial aid eligibility.
- The committee can only approve an appeal if the student is able to meet all SAP requirements by the end of the current semester (payment period) or comply with the Academic Plan requirements.
- If your appeal is denied, you are responsible for all tuition expenses.

Students are not required to meet with an Academic Standards Office. However, a student may schedule a consultation appointment with an Academic Standards staff member for assistance in completing the appeal package or making the determination if the Academic Plan is required.
